

ABSTRACT

Thai local architecture is important element in Thai social context, that's indicated to wisdom of art, design and development of human races. The awareness of social identity and value adding are become hot issue for tourism research and development. For create own direction to be strength place belong to Thai beautifully traditional among Korean culture or western fever problem.

This research's study about the Interior Architects in Salaya old market through the original houses with restored and conserved ideas. Analysis and synthesis the factors which influenced to development of Interior architects and explain the origin of the local houses. Research's process are surveying from research field, interviewing the elder and small group meeting with villager. Selected the case studies within the scope of the research for in-depth studying and understanding the local house development in Salaya old market since past until present.

Changing of transportation system, capitalism and new market establishment, are main factors that effect on the development directly through the local houses in the Salaya old village. Most of villager who left their local wisdom and changing their houses without the awareness of original. Many of them has been developed with the own stlyes, that became the trouble because nobody need to be the old-fashion. The village restoration and conservation should be set up to urgent issue for locally. It's not problem only one village, On the contrary, they are the national's problem. The government and academician should be support, participate parallel with villager for restore and develop them to be thier own identity and return to be important tourism place.