

ABSTRACT

Research Title : The Enhancement Community Participation for Wastewater Management of Bangbaotong Subdistrict Administrative Organization

Author : Sakapas Saengchai

Year : 2016

This research is The Enhancement Community Participation for Wastewater Management of Bangbaotong Subdistrict Administrative Organization. In order to study the involvement of citizens in the management of wastewater, ways of enhancing the participation of citizens in the management of waste water all levels. There is level of information from government agencies, consultation, level of involvement and level of cooperation by both quantitative and qualitative study. For quantitative study has studied the relationship between personal factors and the involvement of citizens in the management of wastewater. The sample group used in this study were people in Bang Bua Thong Sub-District Administrative Organization, there are 397 people, a formula sample size of Taro Yamane at confidence level of 95% admit mistakes at 0:05. Instrument of collection data is questionnaire result of study found that participation on the management of waste water were at a high level ($X = 3.58$), considering each aspect of getting information from government agencies has average maximum ($X = 3.69$), followed by the participation ($X = 3.66$), involvement ($X = 3.54$), consultation ($X = 3.52$), empowerment of the people ($X = 3.49$), respectively, the 5 parts has participate in high level.

For the qualitative study data were collected using participatory observation, depth interviews, discussion group, administrator of Sub-District Administrative Organization, community leaders and members of the village open community forum discussions. The study indicated that strengthening the participation of communities in the management of waste water is 1) to receive information from the Sub-District Administrative Organization should promote and disseminate information, household waste water management, participation in community wastewater treatment, 2) consultation, community members are able to share information, brainstorm ideas, problems of wastewater that must be resolved and environmental development of the communities, 3) involvement citizens should have a role with community leaders to determine project, activities of water treatment, 4) participation people in the community should have a role to engage in practical projects and wastewater treatment to achieve and 5) empowerment of citizens, community leaders, village councils, citizens need to be orientation wastewater management, development area, maintain environment of the community on joint decision has emphasizing